Big Hollander Colony for Town of Saratoga.

Nekoosa Times—Henry Ulrich, the Chicago real estate agent who handles considerable land around here, informs us that it is now about certain that a colony of twenty-five Hollanders from Chicago will go to farming over in the town of Saratoga, across the river from Nekoosa. The investigating committee has been here and selected the land and the purchasing committee will come up next Tuesday to close the deal.

The allotments will be not less than 80 acres for each family and some will have 160 acres.

Federated Club Meeting.

The next meeting of the Federated Clubs will occur at the home of Mrs. A. L. Koutale on Friday evening, September 14, when the hostess will be the Historical and Literary society. On this occasion the club members will be entitled to invite one gentleman friend to the meeting. There will be music and refreshments, and an address "Library Ideals, Possibilities and Realization" by Hon. E. Legler, secretary of the state free library commission. At this meeting there will also be a chance for prospective members to pay the dues and sign the constitution.

A Japanese Lecture.

Kiyo Sue Inoki, who is said to be America's greatest Japanese lecturer will be at the Methodist church in this city on Sunday evening, Sept. 16, when he will speak on the subject of the Christian Religion in Japan. He is said to be a lecturer of unusual ability, and where he has spoken his audiences have been greatly pleased with his lectures. Admission to the lecture will be free, but a collection will be taken up. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Drainage Contract is Let.

Balcock, Wis., Sept. 6.—Sealed bids were received at this place today by J. E. Ingraham chairman of the Wood county drainage commission, for dredging a canal beginning east of this city and running in an easterly direction for about twelve miles, entering Juncosau county. The contract for the main canal was let to A. G. Gilmore & Sons of Toledo, O., and the laterals to J. B. Arpin of Grand Rapids, Wis. The total will be about 640,000 yards and consideration near $50,000.

To Prevent Erection of City Building.

Mrs. M. Gordon served a restraining order on the city officials one day last week to prevent them from continuing the erection of the city building which had been started on the lot next to her place on the east side. The order was issued by Court Commissioner Hietanen. The matter will be argued before Judge Webb at the coming term of circuit court in October.

The order states that the ground in question has been dedicated for a city street square and therefore it is illegal to erect a building upon it. Guggins and Brazee are attorneys for Mrs. Gordon.

MAUSTON BEATEN.

After Finding They are Outclassed They Refuse to Play out the Game.

The game of baseball that was played at the fair grounds on Sunday afternoon between the Mauston and Grand Rapids teams ended in a rather a fizzle, as the Mauston team, after seeing that they were going to lose with a possible shutout, refused to play out the game owing to a dispute over a decision of the umpire.

It has been customary here to make certain ground rules when playing ball, one of which is to allow a base runner to take only one base on a ball that is thrown past either the first or third baseman. This is done because the crowd on either side of the diamond is so close, that in case a ball is thrown past either one of the basemen, it is impossible to tell how long it may take to field it. It may be stopped near the line or it may get into the crowd and be impossible to field it for some length of time. These rules were made on Sunday, but when a thrown ball went by the third baseman in the sixth inning the Mauston aggregation refused to stand by the decision of the umpire and would not play the game out.

Ordinarily the home team would have given the visitors what they asked for in order to have finished the game amicably, but they stated that last week they were robbed of a game at Mauston, and they refused to let the thing happen again, as Mauston refused to play the game was given to Grand Rapids by the umpire, the score being called 9 to 0.

Grand Rapids went to bat first, and in the first inning Powell, Weckler and Bandelin got around the bases and scored up three runs. Then in the second Powell got around again, and in the fifth Powell, Weckler and McConnell each made another run, making the score seven, while the visitors had failed to see the home plate. Etter, who pitched for the Mauston team proved easy money for the home boys and the way they pounded him out into the field made it look like a kindergarten.

The home team could have scored several more runs had they played with any care, but they got to playing horse in the fifth and went out between bases. The lineup was as follows:

Mauston	Grand Rapids
Etter	P	Barlow
McCarthy	C	McConnell
Tuck	1st	Bandelin
Jennings	2d	Krentz
Dalton	3d	Dubin
Oranson	SS	Weckler
Plano	rf	Chesley
Tavis	cf	Hatzel
Barney	lf	Powell

The next game with the home team occurs this afternoon, the date having been changed from Tuesday until Wednesday when Eau Claire will be here.

City Club Smoker.

Thursday evening was a trifle warm, but it did not prevent a full attendance at the smoker of the City Club, which was given in honor of William Scott, who spent a couple of days in the city. The members engaged in playing cards, and later in the evening waltzes were served, and the result was a very pleasant evening.

The Volcano.

One of the St. Louis World's Fair exhibitions in 1904 arrived in Grand Rapids last night in their special car Mexico from the Copper country of Northern Michigan. This renowned exhibition will play here all this week on Lot on Second St. opposite the First National Bank. The press of other towns speak in high praise of their entertainment.

Special Train.

Wisconsin Central will run a special train from Marshfield Thursday, Sept. 13th, to accommodate passengers from this city attending the Fair. Train will leave Marshfield at 8 p. m. Use regular train going.

An Insidious Danger.

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal result. Take Foley's kidney cure at the first sign of trouble as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. Daily Drug & Jewelry Co.

Will Play With Portage Sunday.

Next Sunday the Portage ball team will be in the city to play a game with the local team. Portage has been on a tour, and during the time they played twenty-five games, only two of which were lost. Under the circumstances there should be a good game here next Sunday.

A Lesson in Health.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system. Daily Drug & Jewelry Co.

Majorities at the Primaries.

The following are the majorities that the successful candidates in this county received at the last primary election. These are according to the figures as turned in to the county clerk:

For sheriff G. W. Brown received 1011 votes and Charles Ekelund 908, giving Mr. Brown a majority of 103.

For district attorney R. E. Andrews received 641 and J. J. Jeffrey 1191, giving Mr. Andrews a majority of 547.

In the district the vote on state senator is not all in officially, but in this county T. W. Brazee received 1477 and Henry 403, giving Mr. Brazee a majority in the county of 1074. In the district Mr. Brazee's majority will be 2000 or more.

E. A. Morse received 1100 votes in this county and Madden 774. Although the returns do not seem to be complete at the present time the indications are that Morse will be nominated by a very small majority.

Have Given up Search.

Wausau Herald.—The search for Mrs. Chichy, the inmate of the Marathon County Insane asylum who escaped from that institution about three weeks ago, has been given up, as all efforts which were made to locate her proved fruitless. Mrs. Chichy, it will be remembered, was the wife of a Wood county farmer living near Grand Rapids. The theory for her disappearance is that on the night of her escape, she waited until it had become dark and in trying to find her home in Wood county, got lost. The authorities do not believe she has met death, but believe, on the contrary, that she is wandering about the country or is being cared for by farmers.

Change at Bank of Grand Rapids.

E. B. Redford, formerly cashier of the First National Bank of Wausau, has accepted the position as cashier of the Bank of Grand Rapids of this city, in place of E. H. Jackson. Mr. Jackson has been in the bank in this capacity for a number of years, but the steady indoor work has proven too confining and he has asked to be released. Mr. Redford has been two years with the First National Bank of Wausau, and previous to that time was with the National Union Bank of Oshkosh, and comes to this city highly recommended as a gentleman and efficient banking man. W. G. Schroedel, who has held the position of bookkeeper in the Bank of Grand Rapids, has been advanced to the position of assistant cashier.

Justice Court Matters.

Ira King was arrested and brought before Justice Brown on Tuesday on complaint of V. A. Keppine, who charged him with assault and battery. The defendant pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a fine and costs amounting to $5.30.

Wm. Ristow was arrested on Monday charged with being drunk and disorderly and when brought before Justice Brown he paid a fine and costs amounting to seven dollars. William had libeled so freely of the glass that cheers that he could not remember much of what had occurred, but in view of the black eye he was sporting was willing to admit that something had certainly happened out of the ordinary.

Helen Monkski was arrested on complaint of Janis Schenck on Tuesday on a charge of assault and battery, the assertion being that she had struck Agnes Schenck, his daughter. The court decided by the evidence that the woman was guilty and let her off with her paying the costs.

Robert Davis was arrested for being drunk and given five days in jail.

Plank-Fulcona.

Miss Mathilda Plank of this city and Wm. Fulcona of Port Arthur were married in this city last Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Plank, Roy. Maack officiating. They were accompanied by Miss Emma Oelke and John Sowaska. The young couple left on Saturday morning for Port Arthur, where the groom is employed and where they will make their home. They have the best wishes of a large number of friends in this vicinity.

Rowland and Clifford's "Over Niagara Falls."

—Seldom is such beautiful scenery presented by a traveling company as that which will be shown in "Over Niagara Falls."

Young man, don't you think its about time for you to get your feet from under your father's table? They have been there long enough. Your father's coat is none too large for you now, and your vote counts for as much, but what do you amount to otherwise than being a family ornament? Get busy. If you are a failure the sooner you find out the better. If you are full of energy, vim and manhood, the world needs you. Get out of the hammock and get your shoulder to the wheel. The bee that returns to the hive twenty times a day bringing its morsel of sweetness adds to the winter's store. You have heard of the drone. That's the fellow the busy ones despise, and because he don't work they make a funeral of him. Don't be a drone. B. A. B. and gather honey. Get your feet from under your father's table. Earn your first dollar. If you can't do it tuning pianos, saw wood. Do something. A calloused hand denotes an honest living. You may think this world owes you one, and maybe it does, but you will find it requires some hustling to collect it.—Ex.

BIG LAND CLAIM.

Indians Appear at Arpin and Claim That They Own the Town.

The settlers out in the town of Arpin were somewhat surprised some time ago when several Indians appeared in that vicinity and claimed that a large portion of the town of Arpin was the property of Indians, and that it was their intention to take possession of the same. It is said that altogether there were some hundred and fifty Indians came there and laid claim to eleven square miles of territory in the neighborhood of what is known as Skunk Hill. They also stated that about seven hundred more were coming and that they intended to take possession of the whole tract, as it had been set aside years ago as an Indian reservation and that the white men had appropriated it unlawfully.

It is needless to say that the settlers out in that vicinity were startled by the announcement, and still more so as several of the Indians commenced the erection of shanties on certain tracts that they selected as being to their liking. Even the white settlers might be in the right they did not like the idea of having eight or nine hundred Indians loitering about in that vicinity, for it was evident that there would be a decided unpleasantness about the matter.

Some of the farmers came to town and consulted local attorneys about the matter and in order to put their minds at rest Messrs. Guggins and Brazee went to the general land office of the department of the interior for information on the subject, with the resulting reply:

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5, 1906. Guggins & Brazee, Grand Rapids, Wis. Gentlemen.—In reply to your letter of August 22, 1906, you are advised that the tract lands of Indians, or any basis for claims by Indians, in township 21 N., R. 4 E., Wood County, Wisconsin. Your letter has been referred to the commissioner of Indian affairs for further consideration. Very respectfully, G. F. Fallock, Acting Commissioner.

From the above it would seem that some person has been telling the Indians fairy stories and that the settlers out in that locality need have no fear that they are going to lose their land.

"Over Niagara Falls," the Real Production.

—On Friday night there will be a performance of the romantic and interesting melodrama, "Over Niagara Falls," the successful four act play that will play one engagement here. Melodrama is associated in many minds with blood-curdling murder and a series of impossible incidents seemingly intended to give the villain a chance to plot and the heroine an opportunity to weep or scream. "Over Niagara Falls" is an agreeable exception to this rule and the four acts are brimful of incidents relieved by comedy of a high order, and the mechanical and electrical effects delight all by their originality. The plot is ingeniously worked out and the cast contains many well known favorites. Seats now on sale.

The Stevens Point Fair.

The Stevens Point fair will be held from Sept. 17 to 22, inclusive, and the management is making an effort to have it one of the best fairs in this section.

The management has made arrangements with Ollie Wooster to give his ladies relay race on each day during the fair, also to have the Metropolitan carnival company on the grounds. There will be three days of racing, Sept. 19, 20 and 21, and it is expected that this part of the exhibition will be first class in every particular. Friday is children's day and on that day all children under 15 will be admitted free. This has also been designated as automobile day, when it is expected that there will be a good showing.

Missionary Supper.

The members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society served supper at the home of Mrs. G. K. Gardner on Tuesday evening. While there was a goodly number in attendance numbers of others who lived at a distance were kept away on account of the heavy rainstorm that came up about six o'clock. A very nice supper was served.

NOTICE.

Those members of the Epworth League, who have been collecting papers, are notified to the same in bundles and notify Mrs. A. D. Hill so that they may be collected.

Struck by Lightning.

Lightning struck the opera house Tuesday evening during the storm and damaged the structure slightly. Luckily the building was not set on fire.

People who write things which they would like to see printed in a newspaper, should bear in mind that what they write as their personal opinion should be factually by them, and when they attach their names to it should never be printed. Remember the rule of all decent newspapers and you will never have occasion to put on the shoe. This is the rule which we give in this kindess. Never ask a newspaper to do anything you are ashamed to do yourself.

Death of Charles Richards.

The body of Charles S. Richards was brought to this city and interred in Forest Hill Cemetery on Sunday last, the services being conducted by Rev. Fred Staff of the Congregational church.

Mr. Richards died at his home at Arbor Vitae on Thursday at the age of 50 years, having been born in Saratoga, N. Y., on December 4, 1855. Mr. Richards was a resident of this city for a long number of years, and was well known to all the old residents in this vicinity. He came here in 1884, and for a long time followed the vocation of river pilot. Later he moved to Arbor Vitae.

He is survived by his wife who resides at Arbor Vitae, a son, R. H. Richards, of Astoria, Washington, and daughters, Mrs. Carrie Husbrow of Greenfield, Mo., Mrs. Nellie Janish and Mrs. Flora Dugan of Hendrix, Minn. He has also two brothers living, Henry Richards of Alexandria, Minn., George Richards of Brookfield, Wis., and three sisters, Mrs. M. A. Daugherty of this city, Mrs. Seaman of Arkansas and Mrs. S. B. Barnes of Wausau.

The pallbearers at the funeral were all old time friends of the deceased, they being Joseph L. Whitney, Edward Whelan, Sr., William Cavanaugh, Michael Mason, Sr., David Kammer and R. A. Spafford.

Death of Silas Payne.

Silas Payne, one of the old residents of this city, died at Fond du Lac on Monday evening after an illness extending over some time. Mr. Payne was visiting his friends and relatives in this city a few weeks ago, and although he was considerably under the weather at that time, it was not thought that he would succumb so soon, as he was able to be about most of the time.

Deceased was seventy years old and had been a resident of this city for forty five years before moving to Fond du Lac, where he resided with his daughter. He leaves four children, three sons and a daughter, they being Elmer Payne of Babcock, Rockland and Lee of this city, and Mrs. George Brubaker of Fond du Lac.

The body will be here today and the funeral occurs at two o'clock this afternoon from the Methodist church, the remains being interred in Forest Hill cemetery.

Church Announcement.

Mr. Edmund Schragos of Bethlehem, Pa., will again occupy the pulpit at the First Moravian church next Sunday morning and evening, 10:30 o'clock and 7:30 o'clock are the time of the respective services. The evening service will be in the English language.

Will Meet Here.

Thomas Emmerton of Milwaukee was in the city on Tuesday making arrangements for the state meeting of the American Society of Equity which will be held in this city on January 8, 1907, and probably continue for three or four days. It is probable that there will be between one hundred and two hundred members at the association in attendance at the meetings.

The American Society of Equity is an association formed among the farmers for the purpose of protecting their interests, and more especially to regulate the prices of farm products all over the country. The farmers, or many of them, feel that in the last years have been compelled to take low prices for products when it was not as well necessary, and they hope that by forming branches of the society all over the country they will be able to cooperate in order to do away with some of the abuses that they have had to stand the brunt of in the past.

Mr. Emmerton, who is the president of the Wisconsin branch of the society, explained that there was nothing that could be called a trust in their organization. There are many times when in the late part of the season products are thrown out the market in such quantities that the price is practically nothing to the man who puts out the labor of producing the commodity, and then later in the season there is a scarcity, that boosts the price away up and out of all proportion. The society began to regulate the distribution of the different commodities so that when the season is over the agriculturist will have received a fair price for his product and the consumer at no time has been robbed.

The Wisconsin branch of the organization met last year at Chippewa Falls, where they were greatly pleased with the reception that was given the members, but Grand Rapids was selected for the coming meeting for the reason that it is more centrally located and also because of the railroad facilities. Almost all of the members can get here inside of one day, and they can also get home in the same length of time, which is one of the reasons for this.

There is also a National organization of Equity, which will hold its meeting this year on Oct. 23d at East St. Louis, Ill., where it is expected that there will be a large attendance and a four or five days session. The program for the local meeting will be published as soon as it has been prepared.

peered blacker than it really was, by reason of his waxy complexion, which was almost corpse-like in its yellowish whiteness. This mustache, which was long and flowing, gave him an air of ferocity which was really startling. He wore in winter a long ulster that came almost to his heels.

Family of Ghouls.

At about this time the country was startled by the weird story which followed the arrest of the McNamers family. Some three miles from the city there had lived for five years the father, two sons and a daughter. But little was known of them, although the neighbors frequently speculated on their means of earning a livelihood.

One night a farmer named Goodrich was returning to his home late from a visit to a distant relative, when he met in the dark road a team. The road was narrow, so that in passing he was able to see the occupants of the other vehicle. He recognized them as the old man McNamers and his daughter. He was somewhat surprised to notice that the girl was dressed in man's clothes, but still dressed in man's clothes, but still dressed in man's clothes, but still dressed in man's clothes.

Goodrich, pale from fright, hurried home and roused the neighbors. They opened the grave, which had but lately been filled, and found it empty. A search of the house of the McNamers revealed spades, ropes and all the other paraphernalia of grave robbing. Further investigation of the graveyard showed that many other bodies had been tampered with. The police were called in, and a search was made of the graveyard. The bodies of the McNamers were found, and the girl was identified as the daughter of the old man McNamers.

PEACE COMES SLOWLY

CUBAN REBELS MAKE ONEROUS DEMANDS ON PALMA.

WANT CAPOTE FOR CHIEF

Insist That Vice President Shall Succeed to Executive Office and Restore Insurgents to Positions in the Government Service.

Havana.—While peace projects have caused a general suspension of revolutionary operations, no appreciable progress towards anything like a satisfactory understanding has been made. The liberal leaders insist that it is unjust to regard them as insurgents, and assert that they are merely seeking for peace, at the same time demanding that not only must the terms of peace be better than heretofore, but that there must be some unquestionable guaranty that the conditions will be carried out to the letter. The moderates meanwhile continue in a waiting attitude.

The demands which come from the insurgents themselves as the price of a cessation of rebellion are regarded in the capital for the most part not to be considered. These demands include the restoration of deserters from the rural guards to their former positions, the reinstatement of liberal members of the house of representatives, the restoration of their arms by the insurgents, and other equally radical propositions.

The liberals have not yet relinquished the hope that they may be able to force the resignation of President Palma and the high government officials. The success of the Vice President Mendez Capote to the presidency is also discussed, liberals seeming to think they could reach an understanding with him that would be satisfactory to all.

Many business men of Havana ridicule the whole effort for what they call a patched-up peace, which they allege will do no more than temporarily ease the country never can be governed rightly or investments be absolutely safeguarded unless the United States intervene. This is frankly stated in some cases, and by high government officials, and brings the report that the country never can be governed rightly or investments be absolutely safeguarded unless the United States intervene.

Despite all drawbacks, however, the fact that peace proposals are pending, and that hostilities have been suspended has brought more or less hopefulness to the people of Havana.

GIRL'S HAIR CAUGHT IN BELT

Young Woman's Scalp Dragged From Head by Shafting.

Minneapolis, Minn.—As a result of her hair being caught in the shafting of one of the sewing machines at the Bemis Bag company's factory, Annie Shumlin, 25 years of age, is now at the city hospital with her left ear and the entire scalp torn.

Little is known of the accident, further than that the girl was taken sick and lay down on a bench with her head within a few inches of the shafting.

In some way her hair became entangled in the machinery and the girl was dragged from her place on the bench.

She was literally scalped alive in the presence of scores of the other employees of the place, none of whom were able to help her.

After consulting with the hospital, it was decided to make the attempt to graft the scalp back on her head, and the necessary operation was performed.

CHICAGO BANKER ARRESTED

PAUL O. STENSLAND CAPTURED AT TANGIER, MOROCCO.

State Attorney Olsen Follows Fugitive Through Europe and Finally Makes Him Prisoner.

Tangier, Morocco.—Paul O. Stensland, president of the Milwaukee State bank of Chicago, was arrested here Monday morning by Henry Olsen, assistant state attorney, who had followed the fugitive from Chicago through England and Spain to Gibraltar and this port.

A telegram addressed to Stensland by his son announcing an important remittance and which was addressed to Gibraltar or Tangier, put justice on the track.

Olsen who was in Paris on vacation, was at once instructed to follow up the elusion and arrest the fugitive. On his arrival at Tangier he was convinced that he was on the right track, as Stensland had presented himself at several banks and tried to get letters of credit for large sums. He had actually effected a deposit of $12,000 in the Comptoir d'Escompte.

Washington.—It is now said at the state department that there probably will be no difficulty in fetching Stensland away from Morocco on any merchant vessel, providing the ship does not go to a French port, as there is no provision in the existing extradition treaty between America and France for the surrender of persons guilty of embezzlement, the technical offense charged against Stensland.

If Stensland, therefore, got in the French jurisdiction, might not the counsel secure intervention by the authorities, and it is suggested the French officials might feel obliged to move in the matter on their own account to escape liability for a civil suit for damages which might be brought on the ground of illegal imprisonment on French territory.

No such difficulty would be met if the fugitive were brought into Gibraltar or to a Spanish or Portuguese port, because their extradition treaties would permit of his surrender to American authorities.

WILL PROBE HARVESTER TRUST

Kansas Attorney General to Determine if State Laws Are Violated.

Topeka, Kan.—Investigations of the International Harvester company have been instituted by C. C. Coleman, attorney general of Kansas, to determine whether the company is operating in violation of the state anti-trust laws. Attorney General Coleman stated that he had the district courts of Reno and Shawnee counties all of the implement dealers in Topeka and Hutchinson would be subpoenaed to appear before District Judges Dana and Gaile and tell what they knew about the company's business. The company has stores in Topeka, Wichita and Salina, and it was decided to begin with the investigation at two of these points. The examinations are to be in secret. Applications for subpoenas prepared by the attorney general are being served on the implement dealers in the city of Topeka.

A MAGIC COIN.

When Pressed in Palm of Hand It Cannot Be Brushed Out.

Stretch your hand out flat and place in the middle of the palm an ordinary coin, say, a nickel or a one-cent piece. Then tell some one he may have it if he can succeed in brushing it off. He must use a flat brush for the experiment. Of course your hand must not be struck; it must be brushed.

This little fellow comes into the world only half dressed, while his cousins are all provided with full suits of armor to protect them from their enemies. His head and legs have a hard, shelly covering, but the hinder part of his body is soft and tender. "Dear me!" he cries, when he finds himself alone on the beach, "I must bustle round now and find some sort of a covering for my poor, shivering body. How neglectful my mother was to leave me in this condition! Why, then, my sister scampers about with a sand shell on her back! What a neat little house it makes! I wonder how it would fit me?" And this belittled infant grubs hold of his offending relative and tugs and pulls till he succeeds in parting her and her own body into the shell and fastens it with his claws. "Just my size!" he cries triumphantly.

As he is creeping about on the sea bottom with a number of other crabs, suddenly a dark shadow falls on them. "A fish! A fish!" they cry, scampering away in terror.

"My turn may be next," says our little friend to himself. "I must put my wits to work to prevent such a disaster." He remembers having heard that fishes keep away from a sea anemone, for fear of their sharp stings. "What a splendid plan!" he cries, rationally.

It Satisfactorily Explained the Cross on His Report Card.

When Bobbie brought his report card to papa there was a little black cross in the section marked "discontent." Bobbie knew papa's eyes would find that the first thing, and he twisted his small handkerchief into hard knots, and tried to hide part of his chubby head behind the chair in which his father sat.

"What does this mean, Bobbie?" asked his father.

"I was late to school," said Bobbie, who knew that his mother had seen him leave the house in good season each day. "The teacher rang the bell when I was just in the yard, but I couldn't run." Bobbie was near to tears, but he was winking manfully.

"Well, that is rather bad," said papa, gravely. "I don't want my son to grow up into a man who is always behindhand. Now I am going to be very severe. I shall not tell you tonight what the punishment will be, but unless you were late to school, I can show the reason," urged Bobbie. "This little cross was bound to follow me, and I tried to get away, and I kept putting him over the fence and running very, very hard, but he was just jumped over and stuck his claws in my pants until I had to leave him with the lady in the candy shop until school was done, and then I brought him home, that was the reason," Bobbie flung out on his gossamer and looked at the kitten. Something in its forlorn, frightened face touched him.

"Well, I guess we shall have to forgive you this time," he said. "Nora better feed him on cream a while!"

"Then I needn't have that punishment—that one that was too awful to think up?" asked Bobbie.

"No, that's all forgiven," said papa. "You're a Companion."

Plan to Give Every Worker a Vacation

By SAMUEL S. KOENIG, New York Politician.

If there was some economic scheme or plan by which the thousands of the underpaid and overworked men and women of our large cities could be given a week away from the surroundings that become so monotonously impressed on the mind and nerves, and have that week in a locality where diversion would be a practical probability without the usual attendant loss of time and money, it would be a most commendable move.

The plan I have in mind is outlined much as follows: To have an institution that had as its object only the purpose of giving to every one a vacation without any idea of profit to itself, and to never have any surplus except that which was held against just claims.

Bryan Has Spoken.

Have you read Bryan's great speech?

It is a new departure in our politics. For a parallel to it, we must go back to Jefferson, his great teacher and exemplar. It is at once the simplest, the truest, the most comprehensive, and the wisest utterance of our modern politics. It lifts democracy onto new heights. It places it upon a new and infinitely stronger foundation. Bryan's speech will recall thousands—yes, tens of thousands, of nominal democrats, and it will attract hundreds of thousands who have not heretofore stood with a nondescript democracy—a party that was rich in promises but poor in performance because there was in it no homogeneity of principle, no unity of thought, upon any one subject or policy.

Bryan's speech will build what will be practically a new party, around a great central principle, as was Jefferson's and Lincoln's—the only way a party should be built, to be useful to the people. Like Jefferson, Bryan has antagonized the powers of the east and for the same reason; Bryan, like Jefferson, stands for the rights of the people; for equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

It is in the east that the great magnets of the system live. Their strength is greatest in politics and in business. It is there that they absolutely dominate such states as Rhode Island, Delaware, New Jersey, and almost as completely such great states as New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, where they have, as we will show in future papers, helped themselves by fraud and force to every valuable franchise in the gift of the people, thus enabling them to tax the people at their own sweet will. It is in the east the spirit of revolt is stirring. The revolution which is awaiting itself. In most, if not in all the states named, the system is even now compelled to fight for its life against a justly aroused people.

This promises to be a straight fight to the finish between Bryan and the people and the system, supported by most of the great newspapers, all the mercenaries and such of the people as they can delude.

We venture to predict that Bryan, like Jefferson, will carry most of the eastern states and practically all of the western.

Great efforts were made by those leaders of the old democracy who belong to the system to prevent Bryan from pronouncing in favor of government and state ownership of railroads, and having failed they will make tremendous efforts to defeat him for the nomination. Their money will flow freely as water for this purpose.

Falling in that, as it is to be hoped they will, they will leave nothing undone to defeat him at the polls, and meanwhile they will make desperate efforts to elect congressmen committed to their interests, and legislators which will give them continued control of the senate. If we would free ourselves from the rule and the menace of the system we must guard well all these points. The great dailies of New York, with few exceptions, condemn the speech just as they have condemned—or "damned with faint praise," Roosevelt's vigorous policies; but that was to have been expected. The great dailies are joint-stock companies and the men back of the system have long ago become owners of stock. That was a point too far important to have been overlooked by business men so acute as they. So, whether the papers are labeled republican or democratic, they alike deplore the idea of government ownership.

The utterance of the Brooklyn Eagle will serve as a sample of so-called democratic papers:

"The thunderbolt has been fired. The country now knows what Bryan meant by the warning from London an answer to the allegation that he was conservative by comparison with Roosevelt. He disclaimed any right to the compliment. On the contrary he complained so far from having become conservative he was more radical than ever. What he meant by that was explained in full last night. He is flourishing a whip to the crack of which the party will not respond. He has served an aptimatum the answer to which will be sufficiently emphatic. The thunderbolt will shatter. There is not a state in the union in which it will not take immediate effect.

"An hour ago, so to speak, it was Bryan first, the rest nowhere. "Look out for a grand transformation scene with Bryan almost invisible as a probability, scarcely visible as a possibility. He has disengaged himself, in his at one fell swoop evaded himself from a sure winner into an eligibility. Determined to go faster than the president, he has left the track altogether. Having eliminated himself, the Democratic party must look for a democratic candidate."

Meanwhile the people everywhere welcome him and the truth he utters. His speech will give new life to the popular revolt throughout the nation against the system.

Already it is taking effect as shown by the founding of the Bryan League in New England.

Some prominent men are predicting that Bryan's speech will compel the republican party to renominate Roosevelt as the only man who can hope to win against Bryan. And we may yet see the system on its knees to Roosevelt, offering him the presidency upon a golden platter.

Wouldn't that be an uplifting sight?

And just think what a campaign would result, between Roosevelt and regulation and Bryan and ownership by the people! The educational value of such a campaign would be incalculable.

It would be a battle of Titans, and the thunder of it would resound throughout the world.

It would rouse us as by an electric shock from our dream of money grabbing, from our game of dollar snatching, and, for a time at least, center our thoughts on higher things.

If any reader has not read Bryan's speech do not fail to do so, for it is not only the most thoughtful and statesmanlike utterance of any public man since Lincoln, but it is destined to produce far-reaching results. It is the beginning of a new era in our politics and is therefore an essential part of our current history.

University Courses by Correspondence.

The remarkable success of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin in helping the farmers of the state with the solution of their practical problems has led President Van Hise and the university regents to extend the same methods of instruction to the man in the shop, the clerk, bookkeeper, housekeeper, teacher, and to wage-earners of every class who are unable to attend college, so that they may increase their practical knowledge and their opportunities for advancement. This extension work of the university will be done through correspondence courses which will be simple and practical, and which will be given at a cost so low as to justify the expense of maintaining them. It is planned to have these correspondence courses fit into the regular courses of the university in such a way as to enable young men and women with an ambition to continue study at Madison and fit themselves for still higher positions.

The schedule arranged for this work has been planned with a view to meeting, as far as possible, all demands that may be made upon the department. Courses in mathematics, languages, history, English and literature, politics and economics, education and philosophy, business methods, engineering, will be included in the instruction given. Of particular interest, to public officials, in both municipal and rural districts, is the course on highway construction to be given by W. O. Hotchkiss of the university, who has been making special investigations throughout the state this summer regarding the good roads. The course includes a consideration of both county roads and city streets, their construction, drainage, bridges and culverts, and a detailed study of the merits of various paving materials.

Practical courses in business administration are offered by the department of political economy, including courses in business finance, management, organization and management, bookkeeping, accounting with a study of the cost of production, office appliances and systems, advertising, salesmanship, buying, credits and collections, financial operations, and a general course on the practical problems of business management. Every one of the thirty students who was graduated from the regular university course in business administration last June secured a good position before receiving his diploma, and large business houses sent more requests for such graduates than could be satisfied. The department of political economy has prepared three courses, including the elements of political economy, transportation, and the labor movement and socialism. The elements of political science will be treated in five courses.

All courses will be so related and adjusted as to meet the need of the individual worker, and the instructors at Madison will give personal attention to each student, assisting each in finding the course best suited to his needs. The local centers for the work will generally be in the libraries and schools of the various communities.

Those who have not kept in touch with the current remarkable development of correspondence work will be surprised to find how much practical instruction can be given by well-planned courses. One difficulty in pushing the new movement lies in the fact that thousands of people who wholly approve the general plan, fail to make a personal application of the principle.

Wm. Mills, a prominent farmer of the town of Saratoga, who is well known to the people of this city, died at his home yesterday, hemorrhage of the lungs being the immediate cause of death. For a long time he had been suffering with catarrh of the stomach and this dragged down his physical condition until his lungs became affected. Mr. Mills was about 60 years of age and a brother to Charles Mills. Deceased was an old resident of the town of Saratoga and was well known and highly esteemed. A widow survives him. The funeral will be from the residence, Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. W. H. Short officiating. Undertaker A. H. Kieberg will prepare the remains for burial and have charge of the funeral.

Last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock occurred the wedding of Miss Eugene Roberts and Mr. Clyde H. McClure at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Roberts, in the town of Saratoga, the ceremony being performed by Rev. F. L. Anderson of Chicago, in the presence of about thirty guests, a large number of whom from this city. Miss Ella Norton of Chicago, Miss Robert's companion in Paris where they attended a conservatory of music, played the wedding march. The bride was prettily attired in white, while the groom wore black, they being attended by Mr. Ralph Roberts as best man and Mr. Jos. Mitchell as bridesmaid. Mr. Roberts gave away the bride under a beautiful floral horse shoe and the home was tastefully decorated. The bride is an accomplished young lady and one who is especially talented in music. During her brief residence here she has won a host of friends. Mr. McClure is the chemist in the Chicago Edison Co's laboratory.

WAS A VERY SICK BOY.

But Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"When my boy was two years old he had a very severe attack of bowel complaint, but by the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy we brought him out all right," says Maggie Hickox of Midland, Mich. "This remedy can be depended upon in the most severe cases. Even cholera infantum is cured by it. Follow the plain printed directions and a cure is certain." For sale by Daly Drug & Jewelry Co.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold

A. J. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package, and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success. Daly Drug & Jewelry Co.

Russell Sage's Ghoulish Proof Vault.

Any Person May Have One for $100, But the Disappearance of the Resurrectionists Has Lessened the Demand.

London—One need not have the wealth of the late Mrs. Russell Sage in order to purchase a ghoulish proof vault, of the same thing, or at least, one equally burglar-proof, can be secured here for $100 to $200. They are not in great demand hereabouts, for the same reason does not exist as far away, or else, at all, save for two or three millionaires, said a member of a prominent firm in speaking of this type of sarcophagi.

"I cannot see how any such sum as that mentioned in the newspapers could possibly be paid for a steel case. Let them be secured for a little over $100, and even if made to order could not be brought above a cost of $1,000. They are of simple construction, consisting only of a steel case with lock and handle, and a heavy door, which is bolted in place. The ordinary kind cannot be opened without the use of a steel chisel, and then the heads of the bolts would have to be cut away.

"They are an absolute protection for such as possess the fear of body snatchers, but they are not used very much here in the case. Now that the medical schools are well supplied, under the law, there is little incentive for this type of terminal to operate in the north and west, however, they are in quite common use."

"You ever have a request for a casket which shall be provided with safeguards against burial alive?"

No More Burials Alive. "No. Under our present medical burial laws is an impossibility. To be sure, there are some eccentric individuals who make odd requests, but in my long experience I have never come across one. This steel casket is as far as they ever vary in their expressions."

A member of the local branch of the company, from whom it was reported, also stated that it would be impossible to expend this amount of money on the purchase of a steel casket.

"Our prices range from $100 to perhaps $500, and should such a thing be made to order, of heavier steel and peared blacker than it really was, by reason of his waxy complexion, which was almost corpse-like in its yellowish whiteness. This mustache, which was long and flowing, gave him an air of ferocity which was really startling. He wore in winter a long ulster that came almost to his heels."

Skilled in Use of Weapons. A glimpse of his living rooms in Warren street, Syracuse, was a revelation of the tastes of the man. The walls were hung with fells and a regular armory of weapons. An expert fencer and a dead shot, he let an existence that drew him away from all but a very few intimate friends.

His skill with the revolver was noteworthy. As an illustration of this, an acquaintance of his said: "I never knew a surer marksmen; he was absolute lightning. On one occasion he and I were in the old medical college one night, and had to go downstairs into the cellar, where the cadavers were kept in huge barrels of brine. I went ahead, carrying a candle, while Harvey followed me. He had a cigarette in his right hand and a package in his left. When half-way down the stairs, in the inkly blackness, I heard a noise in one of the coal bins. Almost before I had time to catch the gleam from a pair of yellowish eyes, and to realize it was a prowling cat, I heard the report of a revolver. I jumped, and when I recovered myself looked around, to see this man kicking aside the dead body of the cat. He was laughing at my fright."

To a man of this morbid nature and one who, moreover, was absolutely fearless and who courted adventure, this gruesome work of body snatching had its fascinations. It was in fact, and the best of his police force of the country were trying to stop it, which added another incentive to this man. It was a contest of mind and pluck, as he looked upon it. And so, while still a student, he organized a small gang of men who supplied cadavers to his colleagues even as far west as Michigan.

Empty Numerous Graves. The poorhouse graveyard was their favorite hunting ground, and at the request of the body of Kendall an officer testified that he did not believe there were a dozen graves in the cemetery containing bodies. But these ghouls even visited neighboring villages and the aristocratic burial grounds at Oakwood. So bold did they become, and so powerless were the police to check them, that many citizens buried relatives and friends in distant cities.

Kendall was suspected, but he adopted a hundred names to throw the sleuths of his track. "Time and time again he was almost captured in the act, but always made good his escape. Cornered he was guarded and patrolled, placed about tombs, but still the medical college was supplied, and Kendall remained at large.

His end was as tragic and mysterious as his life had been. On May 8, 1882, Thomas Powell, an attendant at the county courthouse, looked from one of the windows and saw through the morning mist the body of a man lying in an adjacent lot. There was a bullet hole between his eyes, but he was still conscious. He gave his name, but refused to divulge the name of the man who had done the deed. He died a few hours later, with his lips still sealed.

Near him lay a place of carpet, two shovels and a satchel containing a notebook, a rope, a dark lantern, a salt stalk, a screwdriver and a burglar's jimmy. Whether he was in a quarrel with a pal or by a member of the vigilance committee which had been organized against the ghouls, no one knows. With his death, and the passage of a law giving the schools a legal means of securing cadavers, grave robbing ceased in Syracuse.

Family of Ghouls. At about this time the country was startled by the weird story which followed the arrest of the McNamee family. Some three miles from the city there had lived for five years the father, two sons and a daughter. But the father was a man of whom the neighbors frequently speculated on their means of earning a livelihood.

One night a farmer named Goodrich was returning to his home late from a visit to a distant relative, when he met in the dark road a team. The road was empty, so the man in passing was able to see the occupants of the other vehicle. He recognized them as the old man McNamee and his daughter. He was somewhat surprised to notice that the girl was dressed in man's clothes, but still he passed on without stopping. He stopped and asked a few commonplace questions, to which he received surly replies. At this point McNamee's horse started, and as he did so threw the hat from the head of the third figure. Goodrich nearly fell from his wagon as he recognized the well-known features of young William Hill, who had been buried a few days before.

Goodrich, pale from fright, hurried home and roused the neighbors. They opened the grave, which had but lately been filled, and found it empty. A search of the house of the McNamees revealed spades, ropes and all the other paraphernalia of grave robbing. Further investigation of the grave-yard showed that many other bodies had been dug up and taken away.

Many business men of Havana (Cuba) called the whole effort for what they called a "patched-up peace," which they alleged to be no more than temporary, and some go so far as to assert that the country never can be governed rightly or investments be absolutely safeguarded unless the United States intervenes. This is frankly stated in some cases, also by high government officials, and brings the report that those who make such statements are not good Cubans.

Despite all drawbacks, however, the fact is that the Cuban revolution is pending, and that hostilities have been suspended has brought more or less hopefulness to the people of Havana.

Girl's Hair Caught in Belt. Young Woman's Scalp Dragged From Head by Shafting. Minneapolis, Minn.—As a result of her hair being caught in the shafting of one of the sewing machines at the Denim Bag company's factory, Annie Shema, 22 years old, is now at the city hospital with her left ear and the entire scalp torn.

Little is known of the accident, further than that the girl was taken sick and lay down on a bench with her head within a few inches of the shafting.

In some way her hair became entangled in the machinery and the girl was dragged from her place on the bench.

She was literally scalped alive in the presence of scores of the other employees of the place, none of whom were able to help her.

After consultation at the hospital, it was decided to make the attempt to graft the scalp back on her head, and the necessary operation was performed.

To Enforce Pure Food Law. Washington.—As the result of the new pure food law, which goes into effect January 1 next, the department of agriculture is making preparations for the increased labor and equipment favored in its enforcement. The working force and the appliances of the laboratories at Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston and New Orleans will be largely increased, while at the ports of New York and Boston there will be erected new laboratories in which to conduct the necessary examinations of all food products coming into this country.

Johnson for Running Mate. Minneapolis, Minn.—Not only was Johnson, Minn., recommended Gov. John A. American Yacht Wins Race. Marblehead, Mass.—Thursday's race, the third of the series between German and American yachts for the Roosevelt cup, was won by Vim, owned by Commodore Park, of the American Yacht club, of New York. The Vim was the winner of Wednesday's race, the second of the series.

Assuming that a man was getting $15 a week he could, with no great loss in his weekly comfort, pay 25 cents a week toward a week's keeping in the country, his total would be $12.50, which would pay his fare to and from the place, and keep him in comfort for the week.

Few men there are who cannot spare that much out of the weekly savings, and how few men there are who can spare the $15 or $20 necessary at one time to take a couple of days away from the grind of the year's work. Where a man had a family an increased weekly payment would get the same result, and where a man was an earner of sufficient capacity he should be able to pay enough weekly so that he might have not only the benefit of an easily taken, well-conducted visit to recreation, but receive the amount of the week's wages as well.

Such plans are worked by some of the big employers of labor in the world, and they work to the entire satisfaction of every one concerned. One big plant in Germany gives an employee who has been with it a year a rest cure in the mountains at its expense with full pay.

PEACE COMES SLOWLY

CUBAN REBELS MAKE ONEROUS DEMANDS ON PALMA.

WANT CAPOTE FOR CHIEF

Insist That Vice President Shall Succeed to Executive Office and Restore Insurgents to Positions in the Government Service.

Havana.—While peace projects have caused a general suspension of revolutionary operations, no appreciable progress towards anything like a satisfactory understanding has been made. The liberal leaders insist that it is unjust to regard them as insurgents, and assert that they are merely seeking for peace, at the same time declaring that not only must the terms of peace be better than before, but that there must be some unquestionable guaranty that the conditions will be carried out to the letter. The moderates meanwhile continue in a waiting attitude.

The demands which come from the insurgents themselves as the price of the status quo are regarded as reasonable in the capital for the most part, but to be considered. These demands include the restoration of deserters from the rural guards to their former positions, the reinstatement of liberals who last year were deposed from municipal offices, reinstatement of the arms of the insurgents, and other equally radical propositions.

The liberals have not yet relinquished the hope that they may be able to force the resignation of President Palma and the high government officials. The successful Vice President Mendez Capote to the presidency is also discussed, liberals seeming to think they could reach an understanding with him that would be satisfactory to all.

Many business men of Havana (Cuba) called the whole effort for what they called a "patched-up peace," which they alleged to be no more than temporary, and some go so far as to assert that the country never can be governed rightly or investments be absolutely safeguarded unless the United States intervenes. That the idea can be made practical and of the greatest benefit to the small wage earner I haven't the least doubt, and I firmly believe that it will be done sooner or later.

CHICAGO BANKER ARRESTED

PAUL O. STENSLAND CAPTURED AT TANGIER, MOROCCO.

State Attorney Olsen Follows Fugitive Through Europe and Finally Makes Him Prisoner.

Tangier, Morocco.—Paul O. Stensland, president of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank of Chicago, was arrested here Monday morning by Henry Olsen, assistant state attorney, who had followed the fugitive from Chicago through England and Spain to Gibraltar and this port.

A telegram addressed to Stensland by his son announcing an important remittance and which was addressed to Stensland at Tangier, put justice on the track.

Olsen who was in Paris on vacation, was at once instructed to follow up the clue and arrest the fugitive. On his arrival at Tangier he was convinced that he was on the right track.

Stensland had procured himself at several banks and tried to get letters of credit for large sums. He had actually effected a deposit of $12,000 in the Comptoir d'Escompte.

Washington.—It is now said at the state department that there probably will be no difficulty in fetching Stensland away from Morocco on any merchant vessel, providing the ship does not touch at a French port.

There is no provision in the existing extradition treaty between America and France for the surrender of persons guilty of embezzlement, the technical offense charged against Stensland.

If Stensland, therefore, got in the French jurisdiction he might through counsel secure intervention by the American consul, and the successful French officials might feel obliged to move in the matter on their own account to escape liability for a civil suit for damages which might be brought on the ground of illegal imprisonment on French territory.

No such difficulty would be met if the fugitive were brought into Gibraltar or to a Spanish or Portuguese port, because their extradition treaties would permit of his surrender to American authorities.

Will Probe Harvester Trust. Kansas Attorney General to Determine if State Laws Are Violated.

Topeka, Kan.—Investigations of the International Harvester company have been instituted by C. G. Coleman, attorney general of Kansas, to determine whether the concern is operating in violation of the state anti-trust laws. Attorney General Coleman stated that in the district courts of Reno and Shawnee counties all of the implement dealers in Topeka and Hutchinson would be subpoenaed to appear before District Judges Dan and Gallo and tell what they knew about the operations of the company. The company has storage houses for its implements at Topeka, Hutchinson, Wichita and Salina, and it is decided to begin with the investigation of these points. The examinations are to be in secret. Applications for subpoenas prepared by the attorney general allege that "secret arrangements and agreements exist between dealers in various places. The application specifies that all contracts entered into between any of the dealers and the International Harvester company for the years 1904, 1905 and 1906 be brought into court.

Columbus Grove, O.—Mrs. Henry Knippen, wife of a farmer living near Cleveland, Putnam county, decapitated her two children, a boy aged three and a girl aged one and one-half years, and then went to the home of a neighbor and told what she had done and asked them to go to the children. The boy's head was nearly cut off, while the girl's head was cut in two. A carving knife was used. The woman was discharged recently from the Toledo state hospital for insane.

Students Surrender. Child Life in the Feline World

"That's the trouble about being the eldest child—you always have to take care of the baby."—Chicago Daily News.

THE SOLDIER CRAB. Handicapped at Birth He Leads an Easy Life Later.

This little fellow comes into the world only half dressed, while his cousin are all provided with full suits of armor to protect them from their enemies. His head and legs have a hard, shelly covering, but the blunder part of his body is soft and tender.

"Dear me," he cries, when he finds himself alone on the beach, "I must bustle round now and find some sort of a covering for my poor, shivering body. How neglectful my mother was to leave me in this condition! Why, there is my sister scurrying about with a small shell on her back! What a neat little house it makes! I wonder how it would fit me?" And this blundering infant grubs hold of his offending legs and tugs and tugs until he succeeds in putting her and her home, when he quickly thrusts his own body into the shell and fastens it with his claw hooks. "Just my size!" he cries triumphantly.

As he is creeping about on the sea beach with a number of other crabs, suddenly a dark shadow falls on him. "A fish! A fish!" they cry, scampering away in terror.

"My turn may be next," says our little friend to himself; "I must put my wits to work to prevent such a disaster. I'll keep away from a sea anemone, for fear of their sharp darts. 'What a splendid plan!' he cries, rattling his claws in glee. "I will go and ask Lady Anemone to be mine. I will plant her on my shell, and she shall ride about wherever I go. When I have finished my meal, she shall have what is left, and I will be able to eat more than she would otherwise enjoy."

Off he hastens to the tide pool where this lovely lady spreads her fringes to the sun. "Yes, my brave soldier," she replies to his question, "I shall be happy to go with you, for life is very dull here. Together we will seek our fortunes through the wide sea."—N. Y. Post.

HIS REASON. It Satisfactorily Explained the Cross on His Report Card.

When Bobbie brought his report card to papa there was a little black cross in the column marked "conduct." Bobbie knew papa's eyes would find that the first thing, and he twisted his small handkerchief into hard knots, and tried to hide part of his chubby head behind the chair in which his father sat.

"What does this mean, Bobbie?" asked his father.

"I was late to school," said Bobbie, who knew that his mother had seen him leave the house in good season each day. "The teacher rang the bell when I was just in the yard, but—"

"Well, that is rather bad," said papa, gravely. "I don't want my son to grow up into a man who is always behindhand. Now I am going to be very severe. I shall not tell you to night what the punishment will be, but unless you can show me a good reason why you were late—"

"I can show the reason," urged Bobbie. "This little cat was bound to follow me, and I tried to get away, and I kept putting him over the fence and running very, very hard, but he just jumped over and stuck his claws in my pants until I had to leave him with the lady in the candy shop until school was done, and then I brought him home. That was the reason." Bobbie finished, all out of breath.

Papa put on his glasses and looked at the kitten. Something in its forlorn, frightened face touched him. "Well, I guess we shall have to forgive you this time," he said. "Nora better feed him on cream a while!"

"Then I needn't have that punishment—that one that was too awful to think up?" asked Bobbie.

"No, that is all forgiven," said papa. —Youth's Companion.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE

OFFTEN THE BEST PART OF LIFE

Help for Women Pastors Through Change of Life

Providence has allotted to each of us a certain span of life, and it is our duty to make the most of it, and to live it as healthily and as happily as possible.

Mrs. Mary K. McNamee

Nervous exhaustion invites all of us to take a little rest. When everything becomes a burden and you cannot get a few hours' rest out of your own life, and you are not able to do your work, and you are not able to live as healthily and as happily as possible, you need a change of life.

Stretch your hand out flat and place in the palm of your hand an ordinary coin, say, a nickel or a one-cent piece. Then tell some one he may have it if he can succeed in brushing it off. He must use a flat brush for the experiment. Of course your hand must be so struck; it must be brushed.

When Pressed in Palm of Hand It Cannot Be Brushed Out.

Just as one would brush an article of clothing. But the coin will stick to your hand as if it were glued there. You may repeat this experiment with some incredulity, says the Chicago Daily News, but you have only to make it yourself and you will see that it is always successful. It seems hardly necessary to give the reason for the apparent phenomenon. The coin lies flat against your palm and the pressure of the atmosphere holds it there, for between it and your flesh there is little or no air.

The Pup Had a Good Time. A little boy, having been sent out of town for a vacation last week, has forwarded to his mother a letter from his dog. The signature is that of Buster, the pup, who says:

I am having a great time. There is a lady dog. It is a bound, it is black and about two feet high and four feet long. The signature is that of Buster, the pup, who says:

Then and Now. I'm glad I'm not a little maid. I'd like they were long legs, with manners, and frills so long, and curl always just so.

Beyond a Doubt. Two women, who both bore good characters as sober and industrious men, were recently charged at a public court with bathing.

The magistrate asked, in astonishment, the cause of the charge. It seemed that one man had accused the other of stealing his coat.

"And I can prove it, too," added the man.

A Texas railroad has ordered that no boys are to be employed in the country where they have not completed eight grades of school, while none are to be taken for clerical work who have not completed a high school course. Compulsory education laws would become mighty nearly obsolete if similar rules were adopted by all business and industrial concerns.

Although many other industries flourish in this country, the manufacture of puppers seems to be on the decline. According to a report of the bureau of the puppers in every hundred thousand of the population has decreased from 132 in 1889 to a fraction more than 101 in 1903. England and Wales had, in 1905, almost 700 indoor puppers to the hundred thousand of population, or almost seven times the proportion of the United States.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, there were imported into the United States 1,000,000 diamonds valued at $10,575,000, and diamonds valued by the custom-house appraisers at $24,252,000 and other precious stones to the amount of $1,247,000—a total of more than $40,000,000. And yet, when the tax assessors go to the mines to hunt for diamonds in the United States, these gems, so rich and rare, do not sparkle for him. Their lustre is dimmed to a few thousand dollars in the forgetful memory of the tax dodger.

NEIGHBORS WELCOME BRYAN

TRAVELER RECEIVES A WARM GREETING AT LINCOLN.

Republicans and Democrats Join in Reception to Noted Man and His Family.

Lincoln, Neb.—William Jennings Bryan returned Wednesday evening to his Lincoln home, and the "phone folks" welcomed him with every evidence of approval and satisfaction. It was a neighborly welcome, planned as such, and carried out in its entirety with that understanding. Lincoln has more Republicans than Democrats, and Mr. Bryan has in the past goodnaturedly expressed the belief that it would be a task to reform the city politically, but there was no line of partisan division, and the welcome extended to both Mr. and Mrs. Bryan was sincere and open-handed.

Everybody showed good nature; nobody wanted to quarrel about politics, and nearly the whole population showed that it was genuinely glad that so well-known a man as Mr. Bryan lived here.

It is doubtful whether Lincoln ever had a larger crowd. The weather, barring the heat, was as nearly perfect as it could be; it was a half holiday in the city, and every train from over the state arrived loaded down, bringing not only Nebraska people, but many from nearby states.

The city was in a happy mood. The business houses being a mass of flags and bunting, while in the residence districts the windows of Mr. Bryan's windows, together with the national colors, were everywhere seen. The nonpartisan nature of the reception was emphasized in every way possible.

Following Mr. Bryan's speech the formal reception took place in the corridors of the capitol, in which Mr. Bryan shook hands with the thousands who passed before him.

PRESIDENT REVIEWS SHIPS.

Great Assemblage of American War Vessels at Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—On the waters of Long Island sound, with a view of Sagamore Hill, the president of the United States reviewed Monday the greatest fleet of American warships ever assembled.

There was a ship of war for every state, 45 in all, ranging in size from the magnificent 16,000-ton Louisiana, just completed, to the fleet little torpedo boat and the submarines and including one troop ship and a collier.

As the Maydower dropped her anchor at the head of the fleet on the completion of the review the president descended from the bridge, his face wreathed in smiles, and enthusiastically throwing his arms around the shoulders of a group of sailors and naval officers exclaimed:

"Any man who risks to be patriotically inspired by such a sight as this is a mighty poor American, and every American who has seen it ought to be a better American for it."

"And you, gentlemen," he said, addressing the naval committee, "are responsible for it. It is your handiwork and it has all come down within the past ten years. Every one of those ships is a fighter and ready to go into action at a moment's notice. Again you have shown your wisdom in the use of steamships for the target practice, for there is where the American navy excels. Our men can shoot and shoot straight, and therein lies our naval strength and our superiority."

ALLEGES CARRIERS ARE UNFAIR

Wichita (Kan.) Company Appeals to Interstate Commission.

Washington.—Three petitions were filed Thursday with the interstate commerce commission by the Johnston-Larimer Dry Goods company, of Wichita, Kan., against the railroads, alleging that they were unfair in their rates.

The Johnston-Larimer company, which has been in business for 40 years, is one of the largest and most successful of the kind in the state. It has a large stock of goods, and its business is largely done in the city of Wichita.

The company's petition is based on the fact that the railroads have been raising their rates for a long time, and that this has been done in a way that is unfair to the company and to the public.

The company asks the commission to order the railroads to lower their rates to a fair level, and to prevent them from raising them again.

BUILDING FALLS; TWO KILLED.

Dozen Other Workers at Eljira, O., Are Also Reported Injured.

Eljira, O.—Two men were killed, two fatally injured, five seriously injured and several others slightly hurt by the falling of the second floor of the new factory building of the Eljira company, under construction here, Thursday. Sixteen workmen on the first floor of the building were caught beneath the fall of heavy tile, brick and steel beams of the wrecked floor.

The dead and injured, so far as is known, are Hungarians, who were doing the heavy work about the construction of the building. The injured were removed to a hospital as fast as possible. The other men who were hurt are being treated in the city hospital.

The accident happened while 27 men were at work removing the false structure used to hold the concrete pillars of the new building in place. The false work, it is said, was moved too soon, the concrete not yet having hardened sufficiently to sustain the weight of the structure.

Mr. Rosewater had evidently sat down on a bench in the courtroom, had fallen asleep, and died of heart failure.

Death in Vat of Hot Water.

Detroit, Mich.—John Mielke, laborer at the plant of the Railway Steel company, is dead after having been scalded in a vat of hot water. Mielke's shoes had become greasy from walking about the engine room and as he was passing the vat, which received the boiling water from the cylinders of the engine, he slipped and fell headlong into the scalding liquid.

He was entirely immersed, being practically scalded from head to foot and for five hours suffered most intense agony until death brought relief.

This case involves the title to the famous Virginia Silver mine, located on the Minnesota range and which is said to be worth several millions of dollars.

What? My shaking arm, stayed from my hand and crashed to the floor, where it lay in a hundred pieces. "Yes, he and his daughter will all come, every stick and stone. Looking for a Shock.

One day an electric car was derailed on the main street. The conductor went to a nearby office and telephoned for the work gang. When he returned to the scene of the accident he saw that the passengers were on one side of the track with the exception of one lady, who seemed to be afraid to cross the rails. When the conductor drew near she asked, in a timid voice: "Would I get shocked if I put my foot on that rail?" pointing to the nearest one. "No, madam," answered the conductor, "but you will get a shock if you do."
